PIZZA MENU

Never underestimate the importance of pizza sauce and toppings.

This relationship has been a troubled one in the past with classic combinations such as plastic ham and tinned pineapple, doner meat and chicken tikka. It is clear that the marriage between pizza sauce and topping has been a turbulent one.

Many restaurants over-look the importance of a good sauce as the base of their pizza. We took this part very seriously and after a lot of experimenting we decided to use a very simple recipe. This promotes not only the base but also the high quality ingredients used as toppings. Many pomodoro sauces can have an overpowering taste of garlic or basil; this is why we chose to make each batch of sauce fresh from our kitchens daily.
